In June of 2018 Jo, John and Dylan made a journey with the goal of connecting our Henge, Koreon Aralia, to the inner temple in the megalithic city of Nan Madol, in Pohnpei, Micronesia.

On Thursday, July 12, 2018 Jo Carson described the surprising results of this pilgrimage on The Hermetic Hour, with host Poke Runyon. You can listen to the show .

These photos illuminate her tale of magic and adventure.

.....

Few people have heard of Pohnpei, a Micronesian island less than 40 miles across, with about 34,000 residents. Poke Runyon of the Order of the Temple of Astarte described going there back in the early 90s, and his tales about exploring the lost city of Nan Madol were the inspiration for our trip.

and sacred places, to look for signs, messages, and symbols that in these areas, section of the trail, last falls. This was just before the steep landslides

Ehhte are huge bat-filled cave overhangs at Pahntakai Falls- the small, sloping trail is on the

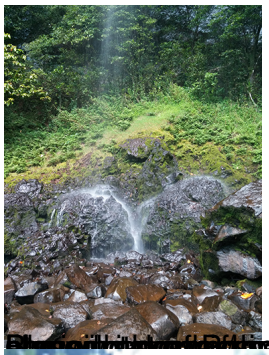

This two foot stack of leaves and ferns is for the god Luhk, or luck - we added ours.

Kihwi thorn and image, as we were the site. When we left, Kihwi explained to the owners that we Pahntakai Falls, a stepped fall hidden, a level of steepness. Getting to the base of the

Feeling blessed at Pahntakai Falls - Jo

Is this the Sleeping Lady?

An awesome day, enjoying Kolonia

All photos are copyright to JK Carsen, 2018